

Co-operation between journalism students at SDU and external partners

The object of this contract is to contribute to a distinct, clear and binding co-operation agreement between SDU journalism students and an external co-operation partner. The preparation of this agreement will ensure a clear match of expectations in relation to the co-operation – before, during and after – in consideration of the student, co-operation partners and the study programme at SDU.

Before agreeing on the contract, the student and co-operation partner could benefit from reading the material about the project period which is available at the study programme website. Including, among other things, a Q&A with frequently asked questions and their answers. The contract must afterwards be approved by the supervisor of the cand.mag. programme Ralf Andersson, who will be available to clarify any questions or similar (raan@journalism.sdu.dk).

Short description of the project:

Describe the student's contribution (working hours, presence etc.):

Describe SDU's contribution (e.g. teaching and/or supervision, lending technology etc.):

Describe the concrete contribution of the co-operation partner (e.g. physical workplace, technology, user data, statement after end of period etc.):

Describe the contribution of the co-operation partner in the form of access to persons, material or anything else that might contribute to the development of the project:

Describe the agreement on rights in relation to any output of the co-operation (e.g. payment, division of rights etc.). With regard to payment, the SDU student must be paid according to the current rate at the workplace – for example equalling freelance payment at the workplace in question – if the work is published:

Any other issues:

We, the undersigned, have read and agree with the above conditions for the co-operation.
