

The purpose of this exercise is to create a shared understanding of the different role types in the study group.

You come to the university as different people and contribute with different experiences and interests. These differences are advantages; you can help each other gain knowledge and competences as a group through your personal strengths and interests.

Talk to each other in the group about what characterizes the different role types. Spend 2 minutes individually to consider the role types:

- Which types do you identify with and in which situations are you mainly one type?

Present your reflections in the group.

Afterwards, discuss the following questions:

- To what degree are all eight role types present in your group? Consider what it means for your teamwork
- How might the different role types impact the group? Progress, thoroughness, etc.
